The 2022 plan update shall help further the city's goal of identifying and mitigating risk to the community, infrastructure, and assets that are vulnerable to existing as well as future natural, man-made, and climate-related hazards. The City of Ann Arbor 2022 Hazard Mitigation Plan shall serve as a guiding document that aligns with existing city policies and plans, including our commitment to equity, authentic and inclusive community engagement, carbon neutrality, and increasing the resilience of our people and place, while outlining specific and actionable strategies for reducing the impact of current and future hazards. The ultimate goal of the City of Ann Arbor 2022 Hazard Mitigation Plan is to improve the resilience of municipal and community operations and infrastructure, enabling Ann Arborites to bounce forward in the face of a community impact or disruption.

SECTION II - SCOPE OF SERVICES

1. Background

The City of Ann Arbor has a long history of planning for and implementing mitigation actions that improve the resilience and overall preparedness of our community for both man-made and natural disasters. This work was formalized through hazards planning that began following the passage of the Disaster Mitigation Act of 2000 (DMA). Post the DMA of 2000 and prior to 2012, this work was undertaken in tandem with Washtenaw County, with the City's concerns being included in the Washtenaw County Hazard Mitigation Plan. In 2012, however, the City developed a stand-alone citywide plan to address city-specific issues and vulnerability. The 2012 version of the hazard mitigation plan integrated the City's 2007 Flood Mitigation Plan (FMP), which included a much more detailed flood analysis than had been included in the Washtenaw County hazard mitigation plan. This first City-specific plan was updated in 2017, with support from a FEMA planning grant.

Given that multi-hazard mitigation plans need to be updated every five (5) years, the City is currently looking for consulting partner(s) to assist with creating an updated plan that addresses vulnerabilities, adaptive capacity, and strategic actions the City and its constituents and collaborators can take to increase resilience to man-made, natural, and climate-related hazards.

As further context, over the last 30 years the City of Ann Arbor has experienced a nearly 1-degree Fahrenheit increase in annual temperature, an increase of over 44% in annual precipitation, and a 37% increase in the total volume of precipitation falling during extreme events. These trends are only projected to continue and become exacerbated under a changing climate. Given this, history is no longer prologue, so the City is looking for a consultant that will help the City prepare a FEMA approved Multi-Hazard Mitigation Plan that fully integrates climate and equity – thereby ensuring the City is planning for and ultimately building resilience to today's as well as tomorrow's hazards.

2. Objectives

The following are the guiding objectives for the Ann Arbor 2022 Multi-Hazard Mitigation Plan and the associated plan development process. The City expects that all bidders will create work plans that allow these objectives to be met:

- Achieve a FEMA approved citywide multi-hazard mitigation plan update, which is also delivered to and approved by the State of Michigan and formally adopted by Ann Arbor City Council.
- Creation of a planning process, technical models, and action recommendations that increase resilience, especially the resilience of the most vulnerable, to current and projected future man-made, natural, and climate-related hazards.

- City and local stakeholders thoroughly understand the current and future local vulnerabilities (including the exposure, sensitivity, and adaptive capacity) of municipal and community systems to man-made, natural, and climate-related hazards.
- Detailed and understandable risk assessments exist that inform action selection and create the foundation for tangibly measuring progress towards risk reduction.
- Public awareness, education, and engagement initiatives lead to the identification of vulnerabilities, articulation of adaptive capacities, and the prioritization (and implementation) of actions that enhance resilience.
- Strategic opportunities to increase local and regional resilience have been cooperatively identified and cooperatively implemented with local, state, federal, and private entities.
- Actions included in the plan have detailed implementation plans, including information on party responsible for implementation, timetables, funding needs, funding opportunities, co-benefits, metrics to track progress, etc., making it more likely the actions will lead to tangible enhancements in local resilience.
- The Plan strongly aligns with and reinforces existing local policies, plans, and initiatives, including:
 - The Community Rating System (CRS). The City is currently rated a Class 6 community within CRS. The 2022 plan update must maintain all 244 points obtained in Activity 510 from the 2017 plan, and preferably obtain more points. A CRS Hazard Mitigation Plan score sheet for the 2017 plan is provided as guidance in Appendix A. A new CRS Hazard Mitigation Plan score sheet is to be provided for the 2022 Plan update.
 - A²ZERO: The City’s plan to achieve a just transition to community-wide carbon neutrality by 2030.
 - One Community: The City’s commitment to advancing racial equity.
 - The City’s Dam Safety Program and Emergency Action Plans
 - The Floodplain Management Overlay Zoning District
 - Stormwater Model Calibration and Analysis Final Report
- The plan references and accounts for relevant and impactful aspects to the City of Ann Arbor from current hazard mitigation plans of both Washtenaw County and the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor campus.

3. Requirements

Interested bidders must:

- Identify areas for improvement and alignment with The City of Ann Arbor 2017 Hazard Mitigation Plan, the current Washtenaw County Hazard Mitigation Plan, and the current State of Michigan Hazard Mitigation Plan.
- Evaluate and identify City of Ann Arbor policies and plans that support and shape the city’s hazard mitigation goals and processes including but not limited to, the city’s Community Rating System and the city’s A²ZERO Carbon Neutrality Plan.

- Review and expand upon the Technical Advisory Committee (TAC) accounting for both membership and representation as well as their role in developing and implementing the hazard mitigation plan.
- Review and revise mitigation action items identified with the 2017 Multi-Hazard Mitigation Plan to make them more condensed, specific and actionable. Many of the current mitigation projects use words like “continue”, “consider”, “assess”, “evaluate”, etc. The wording of the action items should be updated to make them easier to determine if they have been completed and pertinent implementation details should be identified and included in any updated plan.

Additionally, interested bidders should prepare proposals and be prepared to undertake: 1) research and engagement activities; 2) modeling and assessing; 3) plan development; and support 4) plan finalization and adoption.

Research and Engagement

Within their proposal, bidders should:

- Detail their whole community approach to the 2022 Hazard Mitigation Plan through the development of an innovative, equitable, and sustainable community engagement strategy.
- Outline the specific tools, techniques, and engagement practices that will be used to work with the public during the plan development process. Specific attention should be given to how frontline and fenceline populations will be brought into and centered in the plan development process.
- Outline what role they see City staff, including the Emergency Management Coordinator and the City’s Community Engagement Specialists, play in supporting the development of the plan.
- Detail what metrics they propose using to track the effectiveness and efficacy of public engagement activities.
- Detail their process for conducting research on historic, current, and projected future man-made, natural, and climate-related hazards affecting the City directly (i.e., changes in precipitation and temperature) and indirectly (i.e., climate-related migration). The City is especially interested in detailed studies and recommendations focused on managing changes to precipitation and temperature.

Modeling and Assessing

Within their proposal, bidders should:

- Detail how, with assistance from city staff, they will collect and evaluate the necessary data (i.e., historical data, property status, land use, infrastructure, community demographics, etc.) to conduct a comprehensive hazard vulnerability assessment. Attention should be paid to how exposure, sensitivity, and adaptive capacity will be assessed.
- Detail how, with assistance from city staff, they will collect and evaluate the necessary data (i.e., likelihood and consequence) to conduct a comprehensive risk assessment. Attention should be paid to how equity will be centered in this assessment.

- Detail their approach to improving and/or revising any proposed improvements or revisions to the hazard identification and vulnerability assessment process to include all natural and manmade hazards and their relationship to climate change, social vulnerability, and community resilience
- Discuss their approach to identifying and expanding how these hazards will affect the city's critical infrastructure and prioritize mitigation strategies based upon vulnerability and impact

Draft Plan Development

Within their proposal, bidders should:

- Detail previous experience developing multi-hazard mitigation plans that holistically integrate climate change considerations.
- Provide a process and associated timeline for how the bidder will transition between the various phases of proposed work to develop a holistic multi-hazard mitigation plan. The timeline shall terminate with FEMA acceptance prior to November 2022.

Final Plan and Deliverables

It is the expectation of the City that the successful bidder will:

- Develop a list of grant eligible mitigation projects that can be submitted as grant funds become available (i.e., FEMA BRIC)
- Provide details necessary to support the implementation of mitigation actions identified, including details such as party responsible for implementation, cost to implement, funding opportunities, co-benefits, and alignment with existing City priorities. variables they will include to support implementation
- Deliver a plan to the City that will be approved and recommended by the Michigan State Police Emergency Management Homeland Security Division to the Federal Emergency Management Agency.
- The 2022 plan update must maintain all 244 CRS points obtained in Activity 510 from the 2017 plan, and preferably obtain more points.
- Develop a plan maintenance strategy and ensure, to the extent practical, the City has the necessary supporting resources to immediately implement this strategy.

The City reserves the right to reject any proposal that it determines to be unresponsive and deficient in any of the information requested for evaluation. A proposal with all the requested information does not guarantee the proposing firm to be a candidate for an interview. The committee may contact references to verify material submitted by the offerors.

2. The committee then will schedule interviews with the selected firms if necessary. The selected firms will be given the opportunity to discuss in more detail their qualifications, past experience, proposed work plan and fee proposal.
